

Case Study | Chiropractic Student Profile

“People come from all over the world which makes for a really rich learning experience and this is really valuable for when we graduate and enter the professional world of chiropractic.”

Hosanna Cheung, Chiropractic student, shares her story.

Hosanna Cheung studies the MChiro (Hons) course and has just started Year One of her studies having successfully completed the gateway year. She is also the new President of the Asian-Pacific Society (APS). Hear below from Hosanna and her ambitions for the future:

What drew you to study chiropractic?

“When I visited China, I was a volunteer at an orphanage and all the children there either had medical needs, medical conditions or they were disabled. This experience motivated me to want to do more for them physically, as opposed to simply caring for them or playing with them. I want to return being able to offer more support and this is why I wanted to go down the path of studying within the health care profession.

“I saw information about AECC University College after my uncle returned home having attended a chiropractic clinic in Hong Kong and after reading what the University College has to offer, I knew instantly that this was exactly what I wanted to do – it sounded amazing.

Who within the Health Sciences Asian-Pacific community inspires you and why?

“The first person that comes to mind is an Asian chiropractor that I went to see when I was young and living in New York. I believe he was from Hong Kong. I got injured and I went to him for help in my recovery and he made a really good first impression.”

What are your personal ambitions for the future?

“I really hope to use the skills I learn at AECC University College to support people’s recoveries and their comfort levels when they are suffering with medical conditions. I would especially like to help people in poorer countries access chiropractic treatment.”

What would you say to school or college leavers who are thinking of studying here?

“The strong history of AECC University College is very reputable and it has a very diverse community of students who choose to study here. People come from all over the world which makes for a really rich learning experience and this is really valuable for when we graduate and enter the professional world of chiropractic.
